WOMAN SEES IT

AS A
Rheta Clarke Dorr

Prof. Taussig, of Harvard, writing in the Quarterly Journal of Economics on the question of minimum wages for women, favors the establishment of a legal minimum for the lowest paid grade of women's labor only. Prof. Taussig's conclusion is sound, but his reasons for reaching the conclusion are peculiar. Eighty per cent of working women, says the Harvard economist, live at home and therefore do not need the $8 a week which is usually named as a reasonable minimum. Who does need it—the employer? A working girl is a human being, not a statistic. Even if she does live in a group and subsists on a family income, how does Prof. Taussig know how much money she needs? In most cases her weekly wage helps to support younger brothers and sisters who cannot earn.

It has been said that a girl receiving less than a living wage is parasitic on her family. Prof. Taussig denies this, saying that her wage, however small, pays for her existence in the group. Again the conclusion is sound and the reasoning queer. A girl getting less than a living wage is not parasitic on the family. It is the employer who is parasitic.

Prof. Taussig supposes a family where the father earns from $12 to $15 a week and a daughter earning $6, and says that the extra $6 means the difference between no margin at all and something like ease.

On the basis of wages as they are it is much easier to suppose a father earning $9 a week, when weather permits him to work. The daughter's $6 in that case does not mean for the family "something like ease." It means that we shall have to suppose a home turned into a sweatshop with the mother and younger children making violets at ten cents a gross or finishing garments at a corresponding rate of pay.

There should be a legal minimum wage, not only for women, but for men. And the minimum should be fixed for the lowest and most unskilled labor only. Labor is a commodity and should be sold for what it is worth. If it is worth more it should receive more. How much the individual worker needs is no concern of employers or political economists.

There should be a minimum below which wages cannot legally fall, just as there is a number of hours beyond which an employer cannot legally employ his employees to toil. It may be claimed that the most unskilled workers do not earn $6 a week. But if employers had to pay it they would demand of the public schools the kind of education that trains both hand and brain. They would establish training schools of their own. With the legal minimum wage will come a better type of worker, and a public opinion that will make unskilled and exploited labor forever impossible.

DUBRO'S PRESTIGE IS GONE FOREVER

As a Result of Its Falling into the Hands of the Germans in the War.

(Special to the Telegram)

WASHINGTON, June 22.—Dubno, which the Russians have retaken in their recent offensive against the Austrians on a front extending from the Pripet river on the north to the Roumanian border on the south, is the subject of today's war geography bulletin of the National Geographic Society, issued from its Washington headquarters, which says:

"Together with Lutsk, Dubno constituted Russia's second line of defense in Poland when the great world war began. Then it was a town of 25,000 inhabitants, but since that time the whole region has been impoverished and the population doubtless diminished by the fluctuating fortunes of the armies that have passed back and forth through it. The city is situated on the marshy banks of the Ikwa river, which flows in a northwesterly direction, making a juncture with the Styr twenty miles south of Lutsk at Torokovitsy, one of the towns recently reoccupied by the Russians.

Lasting Blow.
"A lasting blow to Dubno's prestige as a trade center was delivered in 1797 when the great 'Contracts' fair, the most important sugar-mart in Russia, was transferred to Kiev. In recent times these fairs have not played a role of such prime importance in the commercial life of Polish and Russian cities as in the days before the railroads brought towns and suburban sections into constant touch with each other. In the last years of the eighteenth century, however, the transfer of this annual event to the city known as the 'Jerusalem of Russia' gave it a tremendous impetus, at the same time having a corresponding detrimental effect on Dubno.

"Two of Dubno's neighboring towns are of great interest to the student of history. Thirty-two miles to the east is Osovo, where the first translation of the Bible into old Slav was made and printed in 1581. Twenty-five miles to the south at Kremenez, are the ruins of a once famous chateau of the beautiful queen, Bona Sforza, who introduced much of the grace and the elegance of her native Italy into the court life of the Polish king, Sigismund I, but who during the last years of her husband's reign earned the detestation of the Poles by her greed and her corruption. She was even accused of having poisoned her son's wife five days after the latter's coronation as queen. Fate reserved her a similar end. A few years later she was poisoned by one of her Italian lovers.

Holocaust of Horror.
"While the suffering which the present war has entailed upon the civilians in the Dubno district undoubtedly has been severe it is not to be compared with the holocaust of horror which broke over this region in the middle of the seventeenth century when the Cossack chieftain, Bogdan Chmielnicki, incited to rebellion by a Polish neighbor who had stolen his hayricks and flogged his infant son to death, brought about the uprising known as the 'Serfs' Fury.' This reign of anarchy and outrage has seldom if ever been equalled in world history. Most of the manor houses of the country were burned and their owners burned, killed, or else sawn asunder. Priests were hung before their own altars with a follower of a rival religion on one side and a despised animal on the other.

"Ostroz was one of the cities which fell before the Cossack hetman's wrath, and time and again the pride of Polish chivalry was routed by the followers of the ruthless rebel. In 1649 he made a triumphant entry into Kiev, clad in cloth of gold and riding on a white charger. At Heresciesko, in 1651, he went into battle wielding a sword which had lain on the Holy Sepulchre and which had been bestowed upon him by the archbishop of Corinth, but here he met with his first defeat. Two years later at Zranya he was again defeated, whereupon he declared his allegiance to the czar, placing the Ukraine under Russian protection, thus anticipating the dismemberment of Poland which came more than a century later."

Bowel Complaints in India.

In a lecture at one of the Des Moines, Iowa, churches a missionary from India told of going into the interior of India, where he was taken sick, that he had a bottle of Chamberlain's Colic, Cholera and Diarrhoea Remedy with him and believed that it saved his life. This remedy is used successfully in India both as a preventative and cure for cholera. You may know from this that it can be depended upon for the milder forms of bowel complaint that occur in this country. Obtainable everywhere.—Advertisement.

LEWIS COUNTY NEWS EVENTS ARE REPORTED

Correspondent Keeps Tab of That Section for Readers of the Telegram.

WESTON, June 22.—A fire that might have proved disastrous occurred at the home of John S. Mitchell, superintendent of the Weston Electric Light and Water Company, Wednesday morning caused by the electric wires. Flinging in the day time it did not get much start and the loss was slight.

Mrs. L. L. Newberger and little son, Louis Hale, left Tuesday to visit relatives and friends in Fairmont and Morgantown.

Little Richard, son of Perry G. Alfred, died at 1:30 Monday morning of diphtheria. He was seven years old and a very bright little fellow. Just a few weeks ago he recovered from a severe sick spell and his many friends hoped for his recovery from this and were shocked to hear of his death. The funeral was held the home Wednesday morning and the burial was at the Methodist Episcopal cemetery on Polk creek.

Miss Margaret Cleary and Miss Josephine Hale attended the commencement exercises at Buckhannon this week.

Mrs. E. J. Kane and daughter, Geraldine, left for Webster Springs Wednesday for a two weeks' visit.

Children's day will be observed at the Presbyterian church Sunday.

Mrs. Maud McGuire's fine stucco residence on Center avenue is almost completed and she will soon be ready to move into it.

The electric storm last Friday night killed two fine cows belonging to W. P. Snyder, near McCue.

J. M. Hickman has moved to Morgantown.

Roy Cook, of Huntington, visited his parents here Saturday and Sunday.

Dr. James A. Tierney and family are attending the druggists' convention at Deer Park.

E. A. Bennett's many friends are glad to see him able to sit on the porch after his long illness.

The ladies of the Methodist Episcopal church will give "A Trip Around the World" Thursday evening. Starting from America at the church the guests will be served a substantial supper amid white and blue decorations while the orchestra plays patriotic airs. From America the party will be conveyed by auto to the home of Mrs. W. T. Harker on First street. Here you will see Ireland and decorations will be in green and a delightful Irish salad and sandwiches will be served. After leaving Ireland they will be conveyed to Japan, at the hospital, where Mrs. Halterman, assisted by a crowd of charming young Japanese ladies will dispense Japanese good things. The party will then go to the home of Mrs. Lloyd Beechley on Main street and visit Iceland. Iceland will be there with all its decorations and serve and treat you warmly. This will end the trip which promises to be very interesting and everyone is invited.

MAN CAME OUT

FOR NERV-WORTH

AMIL TAYLOR SAID HE'D ALWAYS KEEP IT IN THE HOUSE.

"I am glad to say that Nerv-Worth has done me lots of good."

In these words Amil Taylor introduced a Nerv-Worth endorsement which he gave some time ago to the Burke drug store.

Then, after saying that "many doctors" had failed to overcome the stomach trouble that had been with him "for years," Mr. Taylor added that Nerv-Worth had done him good.

"I will never be without it in my family," said Taylor.

The last sentence is representative. Many another benefited user has said that same thing about Nerv-Worth. It is getting to be the fashion to have Nerv-Worth in the house. Every medicine chest should contain it.

Nerv-Worth is good for indigestion, heart-flutter, nervousness, sleeplessness, dizziness, sick and nervous headaches, weakness and weariness and for run-down conditions in general.

Your dollar back at the Burke drug store if Nerv-Worth does not overcome these in your case.—Advertisement.

SAVES DAUGHTER

Advice of Mother no Doubt Prevents Daughter's Untimely End.

Ready, Ky.—"I was not able to do anything for nearly six months," writes Mrs. Laura Bratcher, of this place, "and was down in bed for three months."

I cannot tell you how I suffered with my head, and with nervousness and womanly troubles.

Our family doctor told my husband he could not do me any good, and he had to give it up. We tried another doctor, but he did not help me.

At last, my mother advised me to take Cardui, the woman's tonic. I thought it was no use for I was nearly dead and nothing seemed to do me any good. But I took eleven bottles, and now I am able to do all of my work and my own washing.

I think Cardui is the best medicine in the world. My weight has increased, and I look the picture of health."

If you suffer from any of the ailments peculiar to women, get a bottle of Cardui today. Delay is dangerous. We know it will help you, for it has helped so many thousands of other weak women in the past 50 years.

The Boy is Father to the Man

Old sayings like this are fraught with a most important meaning. And what will aid the expectant mother in conserving her health, her strength, her mental repose and the absence of venereal pains is a subject of vast moment. Among the recognized helps is a splendid remedy known as "Mother's Friend." Applied to the muscles it sinks in deeply to make them firm and pliant, it thus lifts the strain on ligaments that produce pain, it lightens the burden on the nervous system, induces calm, restful nights of health-giving sleep and makes the days sunny and happy. Get a bottle of "Mother's Friend" of any druggist and you will then realize why it has been considered true to its name in our best homes through three generations. It is perfectly harmless but so effective that once used it is recommended to all expectant mothers by those who went through the ordeal with surprising ease. By writing to Bradfield Regulator Co., 713 Lamar Bldg., Atlanta, Ga., you can have a free copy of a wonderful story book that unfolds those things which all expectant mothers delight to read. Write today.

It is mailed free. Among its features are an explanation of the remedy's action, the first pulsations, prepartory uneasiness, date of expectancy, how to be comfortable, and a great variety of topics all bearing upon the one subject of expectant motherhood. Then there are many letters which describe actual experience, making of it a guide book of great value. Don't fail to write for this book.

NOTICE OF DISSOLUTION.

Notice is hereby given that at a meeting of the stockholders of the Peerless Window Glass Company, a corporation created and organized under the laws of the state of West Virginia, held at its office at Columbus, O., on the 16th day of May, A. D. 1916, the following resolutions were adopted:

"RESOLVED, FIRST, That the Peerless Window Glass Company, a corporation created and organized under the laws of the state of West Virginia, does hereby discontinue business as a corporation and surrender to the said state its charter and corporate franchises. The board of directors will proceed to convert any property, choses in action, and all assets of this corporation into cash, and pay off and discharge all its debts, liabilities and obligations; and after fully discharging such debts, liabilities and obligations, divide the remainder among the stockholders pro rata with their several holdings of stock, but no such payment shall be made to any stockholder until after the publication of the notice hereinafter provided.

"RESOLVED, SECOND, That the president of this corporation cause notice of the adoption of the foregoing resolutions to be published in some newspaper of general circulation, published near the principal office or place of business of this corporation, once a week for four successive weeks; and that he certify these resolutions to the secretary of state of the state of West Virginia, and deliver to him a certificate showing the publication of said notice, as provided by law."

Given under my hand this 16th day of May, A. D. 1916.

J. G. SAYRE,
President Peerless Window Glass Company.

WALTER A. JONES, Secretary.
